Space 118, in Mumbai

Given the importance that the Québec government attaches to the pursuit of the establishment of lasting cultural ties with India, the Conseil des arts et des lettres du Québec has concluded a two-year partnership agreement with two Mumbai organizations, Space 118 and What About Art?, in order to offer Québec artists an opportunity to become familiar with the incomparable cultural diversity of this Indian megalopolis.

Mumbai, formerly called Bombay, is the economic capital of India. During the 1990s, economic and cultural globalization contributed to the emergence of a new architecture and the accelerated development of the arts, literature and the film industry. This effervescence has spurred the development of an eclectic, creative society where modernity and tradition meld in a unique manner.

Under the program, and for each year of the agreement, one Québec artist may spend four months in Mumbai, have the use of an apartment and a studio, and take advantage of numerous possibilities for professional contacts related to the development of his career.

Artistic fields concerned

The visual arts, the media arts and the new media

Target applicants

Artists with at least two years of professional practice.
